

THE AMERICAN SCHOOL
OF THE HAGUE

An Invitation

Saturday October 13th 2007

Technology in Education Conference @ ASH

Engaging Students, Empowering Teachers

The American School of The Hague cordially invites School leaders, teachers and IT managers and specialists interested in using emerging technologies effectively and are passionate about the role of technology in education.

Join us in this unique (Inter)national technology conference here in The Netherlands: This conference will provide a wide variety of ideas and experiences for classroom teachers and administrators through discussions, presentations and hands-on workshops, as they look for new and exciting ways to integrate technology into their school and classroom activities and engage their students in the pursuit of learning.

International and national schools together. Put October 13th in your agenda today and register for the conference now before the September 30th deadline. Registration can be done online at www.ash.nl and click on the IT Conference link. The conference will be conducted in English.

Hosted by the American School of The Hague

Lal Abraham
Director of Technology

Call for additional Workshop Proposals

Proposals should relate to the conference theme of empowering students, engaging teachers by integrating technology in the classroom. We are looking for proposals that demonstrate innovative and effective integration of technology in classrooms at all grade levels and curricular areas.

1. 50-minute presentations/discussions
- or
2. 2 hour presentations and hands-on workshops

Please submit proposals by September 28th 2007 to:
techconference@ash.nl

Postal address and Fax below